

IN THE CLAIMS

Please ADD the following claims:

115. A portable computer as recited in claim 81 wherein said bezel is coupled to said outer shell so as to form a housing of said display unit.

116. A portable computer as recited in claim 115 further including a foam stiffener provided internal to said housing so as to substantially fill unused space internal to said housing, thereby providing stiffness to said housing.

117. A portable computer as recited in claim 115 further including an antenna, said antenna being configured to transmit or receive RF signals, said housing being configured to enclose said antenna such that said antenna is entirely contained internal to said housing and is operable while being internal to said housing without having to extend any portion of said antenna outside said housing.

118. A portable computer as recited in claim 117 wherein said antenna has first and second antenna poles, and wherein said housing has first and second sides, the first antenna pole being placed at the first side and the second antenna pole being placed at the second side.